

Yosef Rinott - Title: On multiple testing and estimation

Abstract: The abundance of data these days leads researchers to testing many hypotheses and to estimation of many different parameters simultaneously. Trying to associate some out of many genes or loci of the DNA with certain diseases is a good example. This leads to scientific and mathematical problems which I will discuss. The talk will contain some math, but hopefully more statistical ideas.