Visit of Davide Catania

Dr Davide Catania will be visiting the Department of Mathematics, Surrey University from 22 April to 3 May 2017. Dr Catania is a member of the Research Group of Mathematical Analysis of the University of Brescia. His recent research activity concerns partial differential equations of fluid dynamics or magnetohydrodynamics (MHD), that model physical or engineering problems. During his visit Dr Catania will give lectures at:

- University of Sussex, 24 April (contact Gabriel Koch: G.Koch@sussex.ac.uk)
- University of Oxford, 27 April (contact Angkana Ruland: ruland@maths.ox.ac.uk)
- University of Surrey, 2 May (contact Michele Bartuccelli: m.bartuccelli@surrey.ac.uk)

For further details contact Michele Bartuccelli (m.bartuccelli@surrey.ac.uk). The visit is supported by an LMS Scheme 2 grant.
